

OOPS!

OK — this is IMPORTANT.

We now have a ROUGH sketch. It is NOT perfect.

The point was not to be perfect — it was to feel FREE to plan an idea on the page.

When we look at our finished sketch, we will see things that are WRONG.

OH NO!!! the dreaded “Inner Critic” has shown up.

BALONEY. There IS NO SUCH THING as an inner critic — in art anyway. It’s all a BIG misunderstanding.

What you are experiencing is another WONDER of the human mind.

You KNOW what things are supposed to look like.

Therefore, you KNOW when they don’t “right”.

And since you know how they are supposed to look, you can fix them — if you just listen to your INNER GUIDE telling you to move this line or get rid of that one.

Now, isn’t that a more friendly and encouraging concept?

So, now let’s go see what we might want to fix!
